ABSTRACT
The purpose of the study was to analyze the knowledge and behavior of adolescent school girls towards unwanted pregnancies and safe sex in order to offer practical guidance to control premarital sex behaviors among students aged between twelve and twenty years. The objectives of the study were: to examine the knowledge adolescent school girls have on sex education; to analyze how much knowledge the adolescent school girls have on prevention of unwanted pregnancies and unsafe sex among and; to investigate the risk behaviors related to unwanted pregnancies and unsafe sex among adolescent school girls. In this qualitative and quantitative research, the researcher used questionnaire to collect data from 60 respondents. The findings on sex knowledge, unwanted pregnancies prevention and risky sexual behaviors among adolescent school girls indicated that majority of the adolescent school girls have good level of knowledge on sex education. Knowledge regarding pregnancy prevention was modest but the drags abuse facilitates unwanted pregnancy and unsafe sex among adolescent school girls. Unsafe abortion and contracting HIV and other sexually transmitted infections are the major risks. Behavior related to unwanted pregnancy and unsafe sex among adolescent school girls. The major recommendations of this study are for parents to remind them their duty I educating their daughters on sexual matters, teachers should identify the needs of students in their classes, in order to advise them on sex education, for students to change their sexual behaviors in relation to unwanted pregnancies and to know the consequences of unsafe sex and policy makers should adopt policies that will assist the girl child to remain in school without having unwanted pregnancy and prepare for safe sex in life at right time.